

Practice

- Which of the following places should be considered when selecting improvement team members?

I. Where the sources of causes of the problem may be found.
II. Among those with special knowledge, information or skills.
III. In areas that can be helpful in developing remedies.

- A key characteristic of an individual team member is:
They believe in the value of the team process.

- What is the typical length of training for a black belt?
Six nonconsecutive months

- Which of the following are black belt roles?

I. Facilitating meetings
II. Scheduling the next meeting
III. Acting as a representative to report to management

Practice

- Identify the incorrect statement about black belts from below:

The level of engagement between the black belt and the master black belt stays the same throughout the duration of the project

- What is the best reason for upper management to not provide black belt assistance to an improvement team?

It may not be required

- The individual with the most technical training and knowledge in six sigma principles resides with which role?

Master Black Belts

- Which of the following would be considered an advantage of training managers in six sigma over line workers?

II. Managers must lead the deployment of six sigma

III. Managers must have a command of the terminology and methodology to gain support and advance the objectives of the project

IV. Managers validate the impact of the training

Practice

- Which group is most likely to receive the equivalent of fundamental six sigma basics training?

Senior management

- Which six sigma role is tasked with defining the objectives for a project improvement team?

Sponsor