

Quiz

- Before joining a team, an individual contributor should Possess knowledge of the team's intended purpose and ensure an alignment exists with interests and skill set
- Some experts challenge the value of training and using employees in yellow belt roles. What would be the best explanation for this perspective:
Yellow Belts tend to have less training and are less involved in six sigma and can only effectively support the logistical aspects of the project team.
- If a black belt uncovers a conflict and wishes to take an assertive stance, which position should he adopt above all else?
Collaborating
- The function of the coach in a six sigma organization is most likely to be filled by:
Master Black Belt
- Process owners can also be referred to as:
Champions or sponsors